

Facts about Roth 457(b) contributions

Contributing to a comfortable retirement

A 457(b) is a retirement plan designed specifically for state and local government employees that can supplement your pension and help you enjoy a more comfortable retirement. If you work for a police or fire department (or are another type of civil servant), you may be eligible for a 457(b) retirement plan available through your employer. No matter where you are in life, it can be a smart choice that may give you a level of confidence along your path to a fulfilling future.

If your plan permits, you may be able to make Roth contributions with after-tax dollars.¹

How Roth 457(b) contributions work

Contributions to a designated Roth account under a governmental employer 457(b) plan (a Roth 457(b) account) are made with after-tax dollars. Distributions from Roth 457(b) contributions and earnings are not subject to federal income taxes (and possibly state income taxes) provided the account has been held for at least 5 years prior to distribution and one of the following qualifying events has occurred: age 59½, disability or death.

- You can make traditional 457(b) pretax contributions, Roth 457(b) after-tax contributions or a combination of both.
- Roth 457(b) contributions:
 - Are automatically deducted from your compensation,
 - Count toward annual 457(b) contribution limits and
 - Cannot be converted 457(b) pretax contributions.
- To make Roth 457(b) contributions, you do not have to meet adjusted gross income (AGI) requirements. (AGI applies to Roth IRA contributions.)
- You may be able to convert pretax 457(b) contributions in your account to Roth contributions. Check with your financial professional for details.
- You can roll over funds from a Roth 457(b) account to and from either another governmental 457(b), 403(b) or 401(k) plan that accepts rollovers from designated Roth accounts. Additionally, you can roll over funds from a governmental employer Roth 457(b) account to a Roth IRA account (but not vice versa), at which time Roth IRA rules will apply.
- Most other 457(b) rules apply to Roth 457(b) accounts, such as loans or required minimum distribution rules. Withdrawals from 457(b) plans are generally not allowed unless there is a separation from service or the participant reaches age 59½, and are subject to normal income tax treatment. Amounts rolled over from another eligible plan are tracked separately and may be subject to an additional 10% federal income tax penalty if withdrawn.

Retirement planning

Roth 457(b) contributions offer you an opportunity to receive tax-free distributions at retirement. You may want to consider the Roth 457(b) option if:

- You want to reduce your potential taxes during retirement by receiving tax-free distributions from a 457(b) plan. This could be valuable if you expect your tax rate to be the same or higher at retirement than it is now. This may also be attractive if you expect to receive a taxable pension or other taxable retirement benefits.
- You have been limited by the lower maximum contribution limits in a Roth IRA. Or, because of the adjusted gross income eligibility requirement, you have not been eligible to contribute to a Roth IRA at all.
- You want your beneficiaries to receive tax-free distributions (provided you had your account for at least 5 years at the time of your death).
- You are currently in a relatively low income tax bracket and are more interested in tax-free distributions later than tax deferral now.

A comparison of 457(b) pretax and Roth after-tax contributions

457(b) pretax

Salary reduction contributions	The IRS sets limits on how much you can contribute each tax year. Your financial professional can provide amounts for the current tax year or you can refer to irs.gov for more information. The best approach is to start saving early in your career and increase the amount each year over time. The ultimate goal is to save as much as possible during your working years, so you'll have a more comfortable retirement.
Tax treatment on contributions	Not subject to federal and, in most states, state income taxes, when contributions are made.
Rollover rules	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Rollovers are permitted for pretax funds from eligible retirement plans.²• In-plan, direct-conversion rollovers from a pretax account in a governmental employer 457(b) plan to a Roth 457(b) account under the same plan, if you meet the plan's distribution requirements.
Qualifying events for distribution	Severance of employment, unforeseeable emergency or reaching age 59½.
Tax treatment of cash distributions (not rolled over)	Ordinary income tax will apply to all amounts (a 10% penalty tax may apply to amounts that have been rolled into the plan from retirement accounts if under age 59½ and no exception applies). No 10% penalty tax applies to the 457(b) amounts.
Required minimum distribution	Minimum annual withdrawals required starting with the year in which you reach age 73, or, if later, the year in which you retire. Note that any amounts you may have rolled over from your 457(b) plan account to a Roth IRA will not be subject to required minimum distribution rules. The age 73 requirement applies if you reach age 73 after 2022. Before 2022, the required age was 72 if reached after 2021 and before 2023; before 2021 the required age was 70½. The required age will increase from 73 to 75 starting in 2033.

Roth 457(b) after-tax

Salary reduction contributions	The IRS sets limits on how much you can contribute each tax year. Your financial professional can provide amounts for the current tax year or you can refer to irs.gov for more information. The best approach is to start saving early in your career and increase the amount each year over time. The ultimate goal is to save as much as possible during your working years, so you'll have a more comfortable retirement.
Tax treatment on contributions	Subject to federal and state income taxes when contributions are made.
Rollover rules	Rollovers are permitted between Roth 457(b) accounts, between Roth 457(b), Roth 403(b) and Roth 401(k) accounts, and to a Roth IRA.
Qualifying events for distribution	Severance of employment, unforeseeable emergency or reaching age 59½.
Tax treatment of cash distributions (not rolled over)	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Contributions: tax-free• Earnings<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Tax-free if the Roth 403(b) account has been held for at least 5 years and one of three Roth-qualifying events has occurred: age 59½, disability or death.• Ordinary income tax will apply if the 5-year holding period and one of three Roth-qualifying events — age 59½, disability or death — are not met. (A 10% federal income tax penalty also applies to the earnings portion if under age 59½ and no exception applies.³)
Required minimum distribution	Effective January 1, 2024, Roth accounts in governmental 457(b) plans will be exempt from required minimum distribution requirements.

Learn more

Remember, Roth 457(b) contributions are after-tax salary reduction contributions, which makes them subject to federal and state income taxes (in states where those taxes apply) at the time the contributions are made. Roth 457(b) contributions may fit well into retirement planning where you seek balance between taxable and tax-free retirement income. Speak with your financial professional about your needs and goals.

- 1 Please note that 457(b) plans are not required to include Roth 403(b) contributions, which became available on January 1, 2006. Check with your employer or your financial professional to see if your 457(b) plan accepts Roth 457(b) contributions. The information in this summary is based on the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001 (EGTRRA), the Pension Protection Act of 2006, the Small Business Jobs Act of 2010 and applicable Treasury regulations.
- 2 Eligible retirement plans include IRAs, 403(b) plans, governmental 457(b) plans and 401(k) plans.
- 3 The 10% federal income tax penalty does not apply if severance of employment occurs in the same calendar year (or later) as the attainment of age 55, or if age 59½ or older.

The named individual offers securities through Equitable Advisors, LLC (member FINRA, SIPC) (Equitable Financial Advisors in MI & TN) and, as an agent of Equitable Network, LLC, offers the annuity and life insurance products of Equitable Financial Life Insurance Company (NY, NY) and those of other carriers. Equitable Network conducts business in CA as Equitable Network Insurance Agency of California, LLC; in UT as Equitable Network Insurance Agency of Utah, LLC; and in PR as Equitable Network of Puerto Rico, Inc.

Please be advised this document is not intended as legal or tax advice. Accordingly, any tax information provided in this document is not intended or written to be used, and cannot be used, by any taxpayer for the purpose of avoiding penalties that may be imposed on the taxpayer. The tax information was written to support the promotion or marketing of the transaction(s) or matter(s) addressed, and you should seek advice based on your particular circumstances from an independent tax advisor.

Equitable and Equitable Advisors are affiliated companies and do not provide tax or legal advice.

Equitable is the brand name of the retirement and protection subsidiaries of Equitable Holdings, Inc., including Equitable Financial Life Insurance Company (Equitable Financial) (NY, NY); Equitable Financial Life Insurance Company of America (Equitable America), an AZ stock company with main administrative headquarters in Jersey City, NJ; and Equitable Distributors, LLC. Equitable Advisors is the brand name of Equitable Advisors, LLC (member FINRA, SIPC) (Equitable Financial Advisors in MI & TN). The obligations of Equitable Financial and Equitable America are backed solely by their claims-paying abilities.

Variable Annuities: • Are Not a Deposit of Any Bank • Are Not FDIC Insured • Are Not Insured by Any Federal Government Agency
• Are Not Guaranteed by Any Bank or Savings Association • May Go Down in Value

© 2023 Equitable Holdings, Inc. All rights reserved. GE-3899870.1 (11/22) (Exp. 11/24) | G2127646 | Cat. #156083 (4/23)

EQUITABLE